doors are our world

The Inspiration Catalogue for the Warsaw Home & Contract 2025 trade fair is already a tradition for us. Let us add – a living tradition, as each time new solutions and forms appear on its pages. Page after page, new doors open up: internal, external – for houses, entrance doors for flats or hotels in a wide range of investment offers.

This year, we are presenting many new products from both our internal and external door ranges – steel doors. Not forgetting the tradition from which ERKADO originates, we also present products made of natural wood. Doors are our world – with all its diversity. That is why, just like this year's stand design, the catalogue harmoniously combines aesthetics with functionality and the best traditions with bold innovations.

Come in and see for yourself.

-  We created the Nemezja door with lovers of retro style in mind. They will look great in an old tenement house or a historic villa, and in a new apartment building they will evoke the atmosphere of bygone years. All models are decorated with stylish panels, filled with elegant bevelled coffers or matching glazing, and depending on the veneer, they take on a different look. Some are perfect for English or New York style interiors. Others are ideal for French or modern classic designs. There are also models that allow you to recreate the woodwork we know from old Polish houses.

- Peonia was created out of a fascination with the classic style of early 20th-century English and French interiors. They embody warm elegance, the highest quality of workmanship and a rich range of decors, including unrivalled single colours – such as ash grey, dark green and navy blue. This makes them a perfect fit for an eclectic flat in an old tenement building, a Scandinavian-style family home in the suburbs, or a modern apartment with subtle references to the past.

- ≡ The Frezja door is a unique model of interior door from the Erkado collection, combining modern design with elegance and homely cosiness. The key element of the design is a wide, distinctive frame with a solid or glazed panel inside. The glazing options include transparent, frosted or black glass, available in several configurations – full height or in a narrow strip next to the handle. Recently, the glazing in this series has been enriched with decorative glass with a relief and point texture.

- Epimedium doors express the style of our era. The rhythm of the vertical slats echoes the lamellas, grooves and pleats that are so fashionable today. But that's not all. Some, symmetrical, are close to classic design. Others, asymmetrical, draw attention to the future of design. Thanks to this, the selected model from the collection will successfully withstand the passage of time. Individual models from the collection are enriched with narrow glazing in several variants to choose from. The final effect will be given by the door finish. In addition to a wide range of popular wood decors, best-selling single-colour variants are also available.

- Surmia doors are an exceptionally sophisticated interpretation of modern geometry. The smooth panel door leaf has been enriched with a spatial, relief composition of panels in two depths. What is more, depending on the variant, they can be fully or partially glazed. But that's not all! If you choose a wood decor, the effect will be emphasised by a thoughtful grain pattern, which turns Surmia doors into a true work of art... of practical use. Those who prefer to enjoy only the delicate beauty of chiaroscuro can freely choose from a range of single-colour finishes.

Inlays are a unique addition that emphasise the character and quality of the door. In a well-chosen colour, they harmonise with the interior, adding a modern touch. Inlays not only decorate but also personalise the door in a sophisticated way.

This design not only guarantees robustness and durability, but also creates an amazing visual effect. The harmonised combination at a perfect 90-degree angle not only emphasises the precision of the workmanship, but also adds a unique character to the door.

The reversible door frame is not only functional, it is the future of design, allowing the direction of door opening to be easily adjusted. This solution provides unparalleled design flexibility.

A combination of a traditional handle and a functional lock. Thanks to an ingenious mechanism, a single push of a button on the handle of the door is all it takes to lock the door "like with a key".

Hinges and locks in a matching finish are a harmonious combination of functionality and outstanding visual appeal, making the door not only a practical element but also an expression of outstanding design.
